INTERESTING MEETING OF THE NINE-TEENTH CENTURY CLUB.

orks of art in the American Art Gallery in ophical problems, chiefly concerning con-options of the Deity and the destiny of man three hours to disquisitions in which words of six syllables were not infrequent, and the technical terms of all the philosophies were plentiful. Even were turned up and Mr. Palmer finished the quotation, "Religions die, but religion lives."

Prof. Fiske hae been prevented by sickness from preparing a paper on "The Destiny of Man," especially for the occasion, so he read copiously from his Concord essay on "The Jean of God; Is Pantheism the Outcome of Modern Science?" He took exception to the notice of the meeting which described him as a cosmictheist as contra-distinguished from a Christian because he disavowed the idea that the Christian Church was not wide enough to hold him. He said he had not been in the habit of considering himself as not a Christian. His essay was strictly historical. He traced the continuity of the Church from the first century of the Christian era. He traced traced the continuity of the Church from the first century of the Christian era. He traced to a considering men and said that the philosophy of the untutored savages was not so far removed from modern man as might be supposed. He found the first expression of monotheism in the teachings of Christianity. He marked some of the contradictory doctrines which have assumed the name of Christianity. He said that much which is miscalled Christianity comes from the teachings of St. Augustine, fifteen centuries ago, and it contains much that is neither warranted, either by scripture or the teachings of Christ. He spoke of the phrase, "the conflict between religion and science," as a confusion of thought. He said that much of the sobjection to science comes from the mistaken assumption that scientific theories intend to substitute the action of physical forces for action of the Deity. He denied that the difference between the anthropomorphic and of the cosmic conceptions of God to show that found that every violation of moral law could go on consistently with its teachings. So pantheism and positivism have followed only to be destroyed, and now we have the school of humanity and the cosmic philosophy coming close to borders of Christianity as expounded by John Fiske. They tell us there is no more creator, only a cosmic dust. Who made the protoplasm, indeed. Who made the protoplasm? They tell us of evolution from dust to monkey and then to man, but all the scientists have never found the missing link. The simple gospel of the humble son of a carpenter, preached by twelve fishermen, has survived the centuries and outlived all other philosophies of 1,800 years. I am not posted in the terminology of the philosophies. I believe them to be of little use to reach the hearts and to influence the actions of simple men. There is not a liberty that lasts in the world, and there is no government which has liberty in it that lasts, that does not recognize the fible. What is the object of all theology? It is to reach the human heart and to control the actions of men as they are. How many of us can even understand what the philosopher says? You might take the whole stock exchange and read Kant to them and it would be utterly incomprehensible to them. Not so with the teachings of the golden rule. They could understand, at leat, what that means. I read Mr. Wakeman's pamphlet last night. They tell us that God must disappear; that prayer is begging; that the holy communion is canibalism. When did such a religion send out a missionary? When you show me a colony of 10,000 people who have come to live decently by its teachings, I may believe it. But I say now that the Christian faith of my mother is good enough for me. If we believe this faith, what harm? If we disbelieve it, and thereby do wrong, what of our future.

Mr. Thaddeus B. Wakeman closed with a defense of American positivism. He claimed that the religion of humanity takes in all that is good for anything in every other religion; that it does make a fetish of Naw York, March 4.—Mrs. Leonard Paynter is in jail in Brooklyn on an indictment charging her with bigamy in having married Wm.

R. Paynter while her lawful husband, Henry Lester, was alive. She was arrested on Monday at 445 East Eighty-seventh street, in this city, and is held in $1,000 bail. She is a brunette of medium size, $2 years old, with dark eyes and hair. She said to the Post-Disparch correspondent yesterday: "I was taken out of the house on Monday without a change of clothing or a cent in my pocket. I was brought up by my grandmother, but a Mrs. Wilson says she is my mother. I don't think she is even akin to me. In 1876, when I was 18 years old, a man named Lester was brought into the house. He appeared to me little better than a tramp. He slept for fourteen nights on a box. Then I was forced to marry him. In a few weeks he left me, and from that time to this I have never seen or even heard of him. I am told that he has three or four wives live.

ing, and I thought that relieved me from all obligations. In 1878 I was married to another man. The marriage was annuiled on account of my former marriage. Last year, thinking I was free because I hadn't heard of Lester for more than nine years, I married Mr. Paynter, who has been a good husband to me. I believe that I owe my arrest to a connection of my husband with whom ne had business troubles. It was an act of bitter spitefulness. I am sick and unable to eat, and I expect soon to be a mother."

The correspondent called at Mr. Paynter's place of business, I7 and 19 Rose street, New York, but he could not be seen. Mr. Paynter resides in Astoria. He is said to be a nephew of the founder of the Lenox Library.

which begins here on Monday, the 15th inst. Cockburn. For three or four years after the marriage they lived very happily, although there were times when the husband became somewhat alarmed at the frequency of the visits of certain wealthy people of the town where he resided. One day he returned home to find that his wite had flown. Then he came to this country, and three or four years later heard what he believed to be a truthful story to the effect that his wife had died. After his arrival in this city he made the acquaintance of a respectable Newbort family, one of whose daughters he married. A long time after his second marriage a story came to him that his first wife was alive and residing in leges was sunk in the latter part of last century off the coast of Lower California. The man's name was Walker and he halled from Baltimore. He has in his possession documents which, if genuine, substantiate every word of his statements. These papers include an abstract from the archives of the Marine Department at Madrid, detailing the wreck of the Spanish man-of-war Guadalquivir, on a reef at the entrance of a small bay somewhere to the north of Cape St. Lucas. The Guadalquivir was the pay ship of the Spanish squadron in the South Pacific and at the time of her wreck there were on board over $4,000,000 in ingots and doubloons. The treasure which had been taken aboard at Lima, was in five iron boxes and fourteen oaken chests strongly bound with iron. Twenty minutes after the vessel was abandoned by the crew she sank in twenty fathoms, leaving no trace except the top of her main mast to show her whereabouts. The document is written in Spanish and bears a formidable seal of yellow wax attached to a red and yellow ribbon. The next paper which Walker produced was an elaborate chart of a small bay. The depth of the water, the course of the shore, currents, and the physical characteristics of the place are all depicted. Walker claimed to have visited the spot and to have made his diagram from personal observation.

"I, with my very eyes, have seen the vessel's hull at low water embedded in sand and overgrown with weeds and barnacles," he said. "The hull is split in half and the wooden boxes have probably rotted. But the iron hoxes are safe, waiting for a determined man to raise them from their long resting place."

Mr. Walker's proposition was for the formation of a syndicate having a capital of $50,000, represented by 500 shares of $100 each. It provided for the equipment of a vessel and the employment of several divers, with all needful apparatus. No one would handle the matter in New York, and Walker became discouraged on Thursday last

RIECTION MADE AGAINST THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENT OF LINDELL AVENUE.

The Filled Ground on the Avenue the Basis of Complaint—Arduous Work of the Railor Compilation Arduous Work of the Rati road Committee—A New Fire Engine— Municipal Matters.

On the very threshold of a successful culmination the scheme of the Lindeli avenue property owners to turn the street into miles of magnificent drive, an obstacle is met with. The obstacle is found in the House of Delegates, in which body a few of the members held caucuses and invelghed against the measure, urging that the filled ground running ure, urging that the filled ground running glong a few hundred feet of the road will be altogether too shaky to uphold the Telford pavement with which it is proposed to construct the street. An investigation of the hints thrown out resulted in the discovery that the amount of made ground on the avenue is confined to such a small extent and is so very shallow that it will not sink the slightest under the pressure of the stone paving. The profile of the avenue in the Street Commissioner's office shows that the only fillings of importance are confined to a space of about 150 feet at Sarah street and about 200 at Boyle avenue. The filling at these intersections is only five and six feet deep. What is known as the Telford pavement consists first of a layer of large limestone blocks with the upper ends planed down so as to form an angie. The spaces are filled with the same stone broken into small pleces and over all is laid either finely broken granite or hard stone or gravel. Col. Henry Flad was asked to-day whether the objection advanced was a legitimate one and the Colonel said: "So far as the street sinking, because of the made ground, is concerned, I don't think it will sink. In the first place the ground has been laid the whole winter. In the second place, before the improvements will begin it will be washed out by rain and allowed to settle into a hard mass. The avenue meeds to be improved if St. Louis wants to improve any street within its limits. At present we have no drives at all—not one—and any attempt to stop the construction of this one, I think, would not be right, especially when the magnificent plan on which it is to be done is considered. The property owners have spent out of their own pockets $21,000 for the grading and the assessments for the improvement will amount to ever $100,000. This, too, they are only too willing to pay."

"And the expense to the city will be—?"

"In the neighborhood of $10,000. That is not the large amount it seems when you look over the amount of trimming that has to be done on the grading. So far as the board is concerned, it indorses the improvement heartily."

Should the House of Delegates choke off the ordinance the property holders will feel extendly sore. They have gone so far with the movement that they were even speculating as to which kind of trees will prove the prettiest, and had finally decided on maple.

Committee and Corporation sink the slightest under the pressure of the stone paving. The profile of the avenue in

The Railroad Committee of the Council has decided to investigate the records of the St. The Railroad Committee of the Council as decided to investigate the records of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad from the time of its birth up to the present and are consuming large quantities of ink and paper in the endeavor. Yesterday Mr. Temple addressed a letter of inquiry to the Oity Register, and today Mr. Tracy received another from the same gentleman. The letter, of course, is more formal than otherwise, but serves to indicate the drift of the feeling entertained toward the corporation. It runs like this: "Please inform the Council Committee on Railroads whether you have on file in your office the certificate of the City Counsellor to the effect that the city property fronting on Cerre street within the limits and to the depth provided for in sections I and 2 of ordinance number 11,985 has been acquired by the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad, and whether it has acquired the written consent of the owners as therein provided; and was it acquired within two years from the passage of ordinance No. 11,9637 Has the said company filed in your office its written acceptance of said ordinance in the company in the sum of $30,000 and was this done within ninety days from March 22, 1882, as provided for in section 6 of said ordinance number 11,9637 (Signed) JOSEPH TEMPLE, Chairman. The Fire Department is to have a new engine, and 4 o'clock this afternoon was set for the time of opening bids thereon. At that the time of opening bids thereon. At that time there was but one bid received at the office of the Commissioner of Supplies. It was from the Ahrens Manuracturing Company of Cincinnatt, and the reason for its solitude was the technical specifications which called for an engine such as the Ahrens Company is the only firm in the country allowed by law to manufacture, so it was useless for manufacture, so it was useless for any other firm to bid. All the engines used in the department have been supplied by the Ahrens Company. The engine will arrive in about three weeks and will be tested by the Supply Commissioner and Chief Lindsay before the City Hail Building.

The police were paid off to-day. The Dean Investigating Committee of the House of Delegates will not meet this evening, as intended. The Committee on Claims of the Upper House met this afternoon to dispose of the ten small bills before them. A committee of citizens of Carondelet called hpon the Street and Sewer Commissioner this morning and petitioned for improvements coming under the direction of both of these departments.

CITY PERSONALS.

Temple Houston of Ft. Worth, Texas, a son of Gen. Sam Houston, is stopping at the South ern.

Mr. Wilson Hunt pleasantly celebrated his 26th birthday with a dinner party last evening at the Elks Club to a few intimate friends. There were present: F. Zeibig, Theo. Benoist, Soulard La Motte, Mullanphy Cates, Henry W. Moore, Charles F. Joy, R. Winter, Charles E. Ware and Will J. Thornton. An excelent menu was served after which the popular host was warmly congratulated. He made a graceful response to the tosts of the evening proposed by Mr. Chas. E. Ware. Mr. Huntreceived a very handsome present from his mother in the shape of a heavy gold chain of elaborate design, executed in Italy.

HOGS—The market this morning was easier and on some grades a decline was reported. Good hogs of any description were scarce, and the general average of the receipts was bad, a large proportion censisting of common and lights. Yorkers met with only a small demand at $44\cdot 10. Local packers were doing little or nothing, and the butchering demand was light. Cincinnati buyers, however, were good purchasers, paying $40\cdot 1.5 for good mixed, and $4.20\cdot 4.25 for butchers' grades. To butchers sales were made at $4.25\cdot 4.0. Packers quoted at $3.55\cdot 4.10. The market was weak all the morning, and lower on lights only.

SENATOR WILSON of Iowa has suddenly made himself the conspicuous National unpopularity rarely achieved by any one. Senator Wilson has done this by introducing a bill to tax and worry all the re tail business of this country by raising the rate on fourth-class mail matter, and the protest against it is going up from the whole business community.

MONTGOMERY's antagonism to the unsectarian public school was perfectly awful, and it is perfectly beautiful to see the horror which the bare mention of it evokes among the Stalwart Senators. It is one of those occasions which make strong men weep. And yet we believe the grave Senators would not care a cent for MONT-GOMERY's views on the school question in MONTGOMERY had not put himself in opposition to the subsidized railroad ring.

A bill has been introduced in the Maryland Legislature directing Maryland Representatives to labor for a Congressional appropriation with which to compensat Marylanders for the loss of slaves. IT will severely tax Mr. GLADSTONE'S skill and sagacity to hold his Government his Irish policy in the House of Commons. It is not yet fully indicated what that policy is; but a scheme of Irish reform that will be acceptable to Parnell will displease many Liberals and possibly drive off their support on a test vote. It can hardly be doubted that Home Rule is a future certainty. Both justice and expediency will require it. But parties in Parliament are so evenly balanced that up any policy of Irish reform without another dissolution and appeal to the coun-

A YEAR'S WORK.

It is a year to-day since the inauguration of President CLEVELAND, and each voter together during the coming discussion of who is reminded of the anniversary will naturally ask himself how far his expectations have been realized by the results of one year of Democratic Administration. Men of both parties expected and predicted great changes.

Republicans told us that wild Wester views of fiscal and financial policy would embarrass and prostrate our industries and produce woful business disasters; that the South, again in the saddle and making the Government may not be able to take the loyal ear tingle with "rebel yells," would soon be charging on the Federal Treasury for appropiations; that a vast orde of Democratic office-seekers would make Washington a pandemonium, and

Democrats, on the other hand, expected, regard to the preparation of piquant and had a right to expect prompt and ters' strike. All over the country there is Marmaduke, but learned that the Aney-General of the State was not in Jeffe City, so that he cannot go to Washington mediately, at least. Mr. Clover had determined whether he will go to Washin himself or not. He says he will try no cases which come under the law giving State the right to challenge in the state the right to challenge in the state of the fixes the minimum, but not maximum punishment; that the State is this right. It is on that feature of the giving the State the right to challenge in the fixes was granted, and Mr. Clover wants the nodecided before any more cases in which question is involved are tried. If it is de unconstitutional a number of the murdother cases which have been disposed of have to be tried over. The law which the State this right to challenge fifteen governs murder, rape, fraud, forger bery in the first degree and numerous felonies, so it will be seen that if the held to be unconstitutional, it will er great deal of trouble and cost the State money in trying over cases.

AMUSEMENTS.

Little Fohstrom cannot sing all week and so it happened that Dotti's opportunity came last night. The announcement of the change in the bill was made on the previous night and hear "Faust" went knowingly. The audience was a vast improvement over that of Tuesday, and fairly filled the house. Gound's opera is so full of beauties that it could not fail to be pleasing under almost any circumstances. The honors were shared by the cast with the prima donna. Cherubini as Mephistopheles was a success. His dramatic action was a success. bini as Mephistopheles was a success. His dramatic action was fine, and he sang the score in splendid voice and style. Giannini was admirable in action, style. Giannini was admirable in action, voice and execution as Faust. His work was warmly received and was capitally done. Of De Anna it is only necessary to say that the little he had to do as Valentino was marked by the excellent methods, the intelligent expression and admirable quality of voice which have firmly established him in popular favor. The veteran Lablache sang the part of Martha intelligently and Mile. De Vigne was clever as Siebel. Mile. Dotti scarcely ever appears at her best, because she usually appears on a sudden call and to fill a vacancy, so that she is entitled to some consideration on that score. She does her work with such evident desire to please that one sympathizes with her endeavor. She was hardly equal to filling the full demands of Marguerite but was pleasing in the part. There were frequent bursts of applianse at the work of the company, and the military pageant with the Arsenai Band and strong chorus at the close of the fourth act was an attractive feature of the performance.

goes into effect. Speculation as to what prompted the Board to make the changes is very generally indulged in, not only in police circles, but by citizens generally. Some of the captains feel very shaky and the belief is very general that the Board was not actuated merely by the reason given—to familiarize the captains with the different districts, so that any of them could fill another's place in case occasion demanded it. This is not looked upon as a very good scheme, as, even if a vacancy should occur in a district, one strange man would have to officiate as captain in one of the districts. The theory of the friends of some of the disartisted captains is that this is merely the forerunner of some decapitations to take place in the ranks of the captains. It is said that at least two heads are in danger, and the change was made merely to offer an excuse for oringing down the guillotine, the idea being that in new districts the men may make mistakes which can be given as causes for their removal.

The young woman was Hattie Makay, daughter of Sheriff Makay of Tuscola County. She was on her way to Jackson Prison and had in custody Samuel Woodman, who was sentenced from Tuscola County for one year for assaulting his wife with a carving knife. The Sheriff is very sick at home and Hattie, since his iliness, has taken up and attended to his business as much as is possible for a woman to do. When asked if she was not afraid to bring such a strong and desperate fellow to the prison she replied: "Oh, indeed no. I don't handcuff him, but I have a revolver in my pocket and I keep him in sight all the time. If he was to start to get away from me I would call out for help and some of the men on the train would help me."

FOUGHT FOR THE RECEIPTS. An Unknown Swede and a Local Slugger in OTTAWA, Kan., March 4 .- Last night a prize fight took place here between a strange Swede named Johnson and a local slugger named Flaherty for the door receipts and champion-ship. Flaherty was declared the winner the second round, owing to a claim of foul. The affair was talked of on the streets for several days, but the citizens never dreamed of the truthfulness of the report until after the fight was over. Much indignation is expressed this morning and the next fight booked for Ottawa will be fought on other fields. The fight was with soft gloves and no blood was shed.

As Rev. W. W. Boyd, D. D., of the Second applicit and clear interviews given below.

Baptist, was known to have been deeply interested in the first steps toward this retreat, as reporter of the Post-Disparch called on the divine this morning, expecting to find that the was attending the retreat. Dr. Boyd, however, was not at St. George's, but was at home, and gave his opinions very decidedir.

Why are you not at the retreat, doctor?

Why are you not at the retreat, doctor?

Why are you not at the retreat from clergy with the communion are incommunion from the consequentity, if taking part in that they would not receive communion from me. Consequently, if taking part in the ministery. I don't want to acknowledge even by implication that I am a layman. While to administer the ordinances of religion. I will not go into anything in which I have to give up my ministerial standing. If its right to administer the ordinances of religion. I want to confess that I have no scriptural right to administer the ordinances of religion. I want to administer the ordinances of religion. Why presence in the retreat would be an administer the ordinances of religion. Why presence in the retreat would be an administer the ordinances of religion. Why presence in the retreat would be an administer the ordinances of religion. Why presence in the retreat would be an administer the ordinances of religion. Dr. Boyd's answer was decisive: "Not at all. It is not a question of open or close communion at all, but simply a question as minister of the gospel.

THE HEALANIMUS.

"The whole retreat is a declaration that the only ground for Christian unity is a return of all the seets to the ritual and polity of the Protestant Episcopal Church. And I am not prepared to take any such ground. It may be that in time such a Christian union may come, but according to my prestent light, it looks as if such a movement would be a return of the centuries back upon themselves. It would be a step backward.

"The point is very simple. If the Episcopal "The point is very simple. If the Episcopal of the control of the contr movement would be a return of the centuries back upon themselves. It would be a step backward.

"The point is very simple. If the Episcopal clergymen would say frankly, 'You are the authorized agents of Christ, it would be time for the evangelical clergymen to meet them at communion. Until that is done, every clergyman of other denominations, who takes communion with the Episcopalians, is there simply as a layman, and by that act voluntarily surrenders his credentials as a Christian minister."

Chaplain Crocker of the United States Army, who was present exclaimed at this point, "Good, good. That's the idea exactly."

"And that is not all," continued Dr. Boyd. "Every evangelical minister stuitifies himself when he goes into that retreat and communion. Remember, not the retreat alone, but the retreat and communion. Remember, not the retreat alone, but the retreat and communion."

"Then why do you not go to the retreat and keep away away from the communion?"

"Simply because the retreat is a devotional exercise and I am not in a devotional frame of mind under the circumstances. The attempt to put the onus of this matter on the Baptists and claim that their withdrawal from it is because of their views on communion is not fair. The owners ought fairly to be put on the doctrine of apostolic succession. This misconception of our position is what annoys me, and, understand, I am speaking only for myself in this matter."

"How did you let the affair get so far along before expressing your views?"

"The history of this retreat has been so often told that there is no reason for any further statements about it, except that when the subject was brought up in the Chi Alpha (clerical) Club, Dr. Niccolls and Dr. Fulton were appointed a committee to arrange the details. NEW YORK, March 4.-What is known technically among ball-tossers as the annual meeting of the National League Committee on Schedules, but what is really a spring meeting of the Association, was begun yesterday morning in parlor F of the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The elegates to the Convention sat in the Com mittee room for nearly eight hours, and then reported through President-Secretary Nic Young that nothing—absolutely and positively nothing—of moment had been accomplished. This was true in a measure but not wholly so, as, while many things of great importance were agreed upon things of great importance were agreed upor by the delegates, they were not put in the forms of motions and not being voted upon do not appear as actual transactions upon the minute-books of the secretary. For severa weeks the managers of League clubs and their constitutents have looked forward to the result of the meeting, as upon the action taken epended the make-up and known playing rength of the clubs recently admitted to the also involved. Yet "nothing of importance

The representatives of the different clubs had arrived in this city Tuesday night and they appeared early at the meeting place. President-Secretary Nic Young was on hand from Washington with Mike Scanlon, the representative of the new League team in the Capitol city. Al Spaulding, with a feather from the tail of Mike Keily's parrot, was here from Chicago; Dave Rowe, minus a mustache, represented Kansas City, and President Marsh and J. B. Malony, with side whiskers, looked after the nterests of Detroit. Then there were Gus

MONGOLIANS MOVING.

Heavy Influx of Chinese Into Arizona EL PASO, TEX., March 4.—In the last few days a large number of Chinese, from California, have passed through El Paso on their towns of New Mexico and Arizona. San Francisco is represented as swarming with Mongolians who have been driven out of Oregon and Washington Territories, and the pressure, it is claimed, is being relieved by the "Six Companies" shipping them East, where the antagonism against the Chinese is not so strong as on the Pacific slope. This influx, however, into the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico has aroused the latent antagonism there and anti-Chinese leagues have already been organized at Socorro and other towns in New Mexico and at Tucson and Tombstone in Arizona, all of which places are suffering from a heavy increase in their Chinese population and which may lead to their violent eviction, as was recently the case in Washington Territory.
